About Peace and Justice Support Network

Peace and reconciliation are essential to understanding the nature of God, the work of Jesus, and the indwelling of the Spirit. The Peace and Justice Support Network promotes peace and justice witness and work within Mennonite Church USA, its members and congregations. Mennonite Mission Network provides support for the peace and justice program of Mennonite Church USA.

PJSN is an organized network of volunteers with a special interest in peace and justice issues. PJSN volunteers are a significant part of Mennonite Church USA peace and justice ministries. Susan Mark Landis, denominational minister for peace and justice, and Tim Huber, peace and justice associate, work with PJSN.

PJSN

- Strengthens Mennonite Church USA's commitment to peace and justice, and encourages the church to embody and communicate Christ's reconciling way.
- Supports new congregational peace and justice projects through Spread the Peace grants.
- Connects Mennonite Church USA congregations who are working for justice and peace, through newsletters, peace gatherings, and topical conference calls.
- Creates and distributes resources for worship, education and advocacy.
- Relates to the peace and justice groups of other denominations.

Support this Ministry

The peace and justice work of Mennonite Church USA is funded by grants from Mission Network and Executive Leadership along with designated contributions from PJSN contributors.

One small lamp dispels the darkness. The small but faithful voice of PJSN is a light in a dark world. You can help spread Jesus' light of peace and justice by contributing to PJSN.

To contribute, please make your check payable to Mennonite Mission Network and write "peace and justice contribution" on the memo line.
